

BOND STREET THEATRE

Peacebuilding,
empowerment and healing
through theatre

Bond Street Theatre is collaborating with the youth of Fragments Theatre in Jenin

Above: We begin with theatre exercises such as body puzzles, group games, and physical storytelling.

Dear Joanna,

Bond Street Theatre is currently in Jenin, Palestine, collaborating with Fragments Theatre on a theatre and media series called "Fragments Theatre Speaks Out". The compilation of short stories, theatre sketches, and video montages present a fresh perspective on the beauty and challenges of life in Jenin, and aligns with Mental Health Awareness Month. We thank the US Office of Palestinian Affairs for their support,

Bond Street Theatre is collaborating with 10 local actors, teachers and psychologists to address physical and mental challenges through artistic expression. The real-life stories that come from the group are harrowing -- daily invasions, soldiers intimidations, lack of basic human needs, and restrictions on all travel, even to the seashore although so close. The most important issue is the lack of freedom of expression.

Today we filmed a short video in response to the death of Khader Adnan who succumbed to his 87-day hunger strike in the Magen-Nitzan Military Prison in protest to his, and others', detainment without a charge or trial. See this video here!

With the Fragments Theatre team, we are also presenting workshops throughout Jenin and Jenin Refugee Camp, in community centers, schools, and at Fragments Theatre, to share our array of healing exercises and encourage self-expression and community unity and strength.

Your donations provide the group with continued funding for transport and food, and the opportunity to bring its healing work throughout Jenin.

Our next newsletter will include scenes from week 2. Stay tuned! And thank you!
